tf 1697 Hongkong, 19th September, 1870.

On this account, every body thinks that it is very convenient for the passengers. The 6th of this month, she returned to Hongkong from Shanghai, among them there was a Sai Chen

2 1819 Llongkong, 12th October, 1870.

ATELY there came a Shanghai Steamer named Sin Nansing. The regulation of treating passengers by the compradors is accounted to be the best, every thing which is necessary to the passengers is not one unprepared. If they unfortunately have bed weather, the compradore himself takes care of them.

On this begannia ways held thinks that it is Shinghai, among them there was a Sai Chen nutive, whose surname was Poon, dead in the steamer, and about 2 days more, before she arrives at Hougkong. Among there 2 men, namely Chun king Tsau and Leong Heong Shing, went and told the Compredere for interpreting to the Captain so and so, who was really willing to practise according to the old have. Upon this the Captain ordered a sailor to saturate a piece, of Blanket with Medical.

The Prussian papers more especially seem to labour under great alarm lest peace should be made. An article in the Cologne Gazette of Saturday lest declares that foreign Diplomatists are flitting hither and thither, doing all mission to accompany the army corps in the they can to bring about so undesirable an arrangement. Were is not that Prussia has a firm reliance on the steadfastness of her King and Count Bismark, a fear might steal over her lest Diplomacy should spoil what has been won by the sword. This war, the same paper proceeds to say, was none of Germany's making. She desired peace, but only such a peace as one in which all the world will not be kept on tenterhooks to know in what temper the people of Paris may have left their beds every morning. In a word, the part which France has so long ringing with bitter jibes at the "cowardly played in Europe must came to an end. THE CONDITION OF MORMON WOMEN. Although the men are educated thoroughly. especially upon points likely to affect the spread of their belief, women are left in atter and complete ignorance. In all the many houses, even of the highest of the land, to which we afterward bad access, we saw sourcely a book save those on Mormonism, and not a single paper or magazine. We spoke of the topics of the day both at home and abroad and met with entire blankness; none of them had any idea of what we were talking about. Then, before a girl has reached full womanhood, while her ideas are still uninformed and childish, she is married, probably to a man old enough to be her father. Take any girl of 14 or 15—which is the common marriageable age in Mormondom -even an educated girl, and how able is abe to form opinions and right judgments? Then leave out the education, and her abilities, will surely be at the minimum. So by these three levers do Mormon men, wise in their generation. net upon the hearts of the women among them : First, by appealing to the religious element sostrong in every woman; next, next, bykeeping her in ignorance of everything that might show her the fallacy of the claims to superiority of the men; and lastly, by throwing upon abildish shoulders burdens of care and weights of responsibility under which mature womanhood must often faint. We are reminded of Him who pronounced woe of old upon those who bind heavy burdens and grigvous to be borne," and lay them upon others' shoulders.

The place occapied by a Mormon wife in her husband's household is simply that of a servant, with fewer privileges than has Jane the cook.

It is day admitted a partner in our firm.

SKETCH OF MARSHAL BAZAINE.

François Achille Bazaine, who though the unior Marshal of France, was selected both by public opinion and the appointment of the Emperor to the critical post of Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Rhine, or main French force, is a man of about 60 years of age, and has seen much bard service. Entering the army in the ranks, he won the epaulatte of a sublieutenant in Alegria, and soon after his promotion was sent to serve in Spain on the Christinist side in the French Legion dispatched thither by Louis Phillippe's Government, when France and England intervened against the Carlists. He returned to see more service in Africa, where he was employed both as a mili-tary man and in a post much resembling— allowing for the diffierent spirit of the natives and of the Algerian system of government from that of India-the office of a frontier will leave for the above places with immediate commissioner under our Punjand saminisms.

It was late comparatively when he reached the scat of war in the East, and he was chiefly employed in the siege of Kinburn, where he did so well as to obtain the honour of being appointed Governor of Sebastopol by Pelissier after the fortress fell.

His later history is chiefly connected with the temporary conquest of Mexico, where he succeeded Marshal Forey as commander, and brought the country in a short time, by a vigorous and successful campaign, under the rule of the unhappy Maximilian. NOW READY. IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, by the Rev.

BIRLEY & Co.

Press Office, Hongkong. NOR scope and practical service this Work which the Chinese have of late years been oumpelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exer-cises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast soonomy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have beretofore characterized Chinese publications, ofilitarian purposes so complete, that a re-ference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Chica, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few in-

And her father, looking to the happiness of his daughter, as he thought, was not quite willing the alliance Booth desired should be formed But for the gifted genius he had a liking and an admiration. One night in Washington, after Benli was doomed, John Wilkes Booth and John P. Hule called on G. W. McLean of Cincinnati, who was then in Washington. They wanted McLean to go with them to find Col. John W. Forney, and, with him in company, call upon Lincoln. McLean | Nature never intended that we should pass, as wise inusually intimate with Lincoln, and had more influence with him than any other Western Demorat. And he was pain. Thus it becomes evident that you have cheek by jowl with Forney. McLean was to wouch for Booth, with Hale, and Forney for Beall. It was past midnight when the headache, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Side, carriage containing Hale. The party were then driven to the White House, and many other troubles and feelings of illness reaching there about 2 o'clock in the morning. They were admitted past the guards, and found President Lincoln in his room, not yet retired. Then came an explanation of the object of the bodily ease, comfort, health and strength of the visit. Even to tears, and gave to Booth his word of nonor as a man that Beall should be pardoned. Then there was joy and happiness in the room. Booth kissed the hand of the President, and thanked him with tearful eyes and choked voice, even after his friends had taken their buts to leave the presence of the Chief Magistrate of the nation, who had promised, and whose promise was by Booth relied upon. But alas for human promises! Beull was hanged. President did not keep his word-did not pardon any beneficial influence upon the health, nor him. Seward, the infumous tyrant and Secretary that they can in any way mitigate or relieve of State, whose tinkling bell sent his betters to bastiles, said it would not do-that Lincoln's duty to the Republican party demanded the are afflicted; in fact their use is of no benefit execution of Beall to keep tinted the sentiment whatever. of the North for such blood. It reinvigorates the fatigued and overnal God that he would kill the man who bad lied to him, and that his own right hand, then raised to heaven, should avenge the death of comrade. And it did. Booth called his counsel but a few friends, some of whom were in Washington, two of whom were not. He marked the President for his own avenging, and to others was given withal it is the charge to kill Seward at the same hour, for his interference. As we believe, under the Directing Power of another world, Booth's hand did avenge the death of Beall. He was the martyr to private feelings, for he knew that almost certain death awaited him, but he cared not for that. Inflamed by revenge—going like a bolt of wrath to the President, he fired the shot which sent cche after echo down the long lime reaching to the future. He kept his word—he avenered the death of his friend, and a wondrous Providence dealt then with him as the world knows of. But Seward lived. There was not that "lightning" in the hearts of those who were deputed to aid Booth in his avenging that filled the soul of the one who settled so terribly in full with the President. And so died Abra. in jugorates, recoperates, and strengthens the ham Lincoln, not by the hand of one who struck in behalf of a nation, but by the hand of a flery, impations stage-walking tenement of chivaley.
